KEY POSITION OBJECTIVES
The Training and Employment Support Service Officer holds a pivotal role, to provide a comprehensive approach to the organisation's objective. Responsible for driving project-based training and employment initiatives, the Officer focuses on achieving set targets and Key Performance Indicators outlined in agreements with governmental and private entities. This role is dedicated to offering holistic support to Aboriginal adults, from pre-training and employment preparation to post-placement sustainability. By strategically promoting, coordinating pre-employment and pre-vocational training, and conducting informative sessions, the Officer establishes a robust database of job-ready Aboriginal candidates, ensuring seamless post-placement support for vocational training and sustained employment. The Officer also undertakes the critical responsibility of coordinating, planning, and delivering non-accredited programs on various topics such as career development, progression, pre-employment, digital literacy, and foundation skills. These workshops empower Aboriginal individuals by initiating their educational journey and introducing potential pathways to further training and employment. Additionally, the Officer is responsible for marketing and coordinating non-accredited workshops, utilising diverse strategies to effectively reach out to Aboriginal individuals and ensuring high attendance rates and active participation. In cases requiring additional support, the Officer facilitates engagement to maximise the impact of educational initiatives within the community.
